PINK OCTOBER Gary Norman Jr.

From domestic abuse and infidelity to second chances and different sex, the members of a support group learn that there is a lot more life to live after winning their battles breast cancer... Tasha, the newest member of the group, planned on having a good job, nice house, a husband and her first child by the time she turned thirty. At thirty four all that's missing is the husband and first child.

When Rhonda met her husband, Harry, she was his pretty young thing on the side and he was her sugar daddy (him being married was of little concern to her). Now that they're husband and wife there are some things he just isn't supposed to do anymore, still chasing after younger women being number one on that list. He says he isn't but Rhonda's gut is telling her otherwise...

Amanda saw the signs when she and her then boyfriend, Mike, were dating (name-calling, a push here, a shove there), but still decided to marry him. Like most women in this situation she figured he'd change. Unfortunately she was right, only he didn't change for the better... Through a bond as solid as the most loving family the members of this support group help one another hurdle life's obstacles with love, laughter and faith. They're living proof that life can be great after breast cancer...
